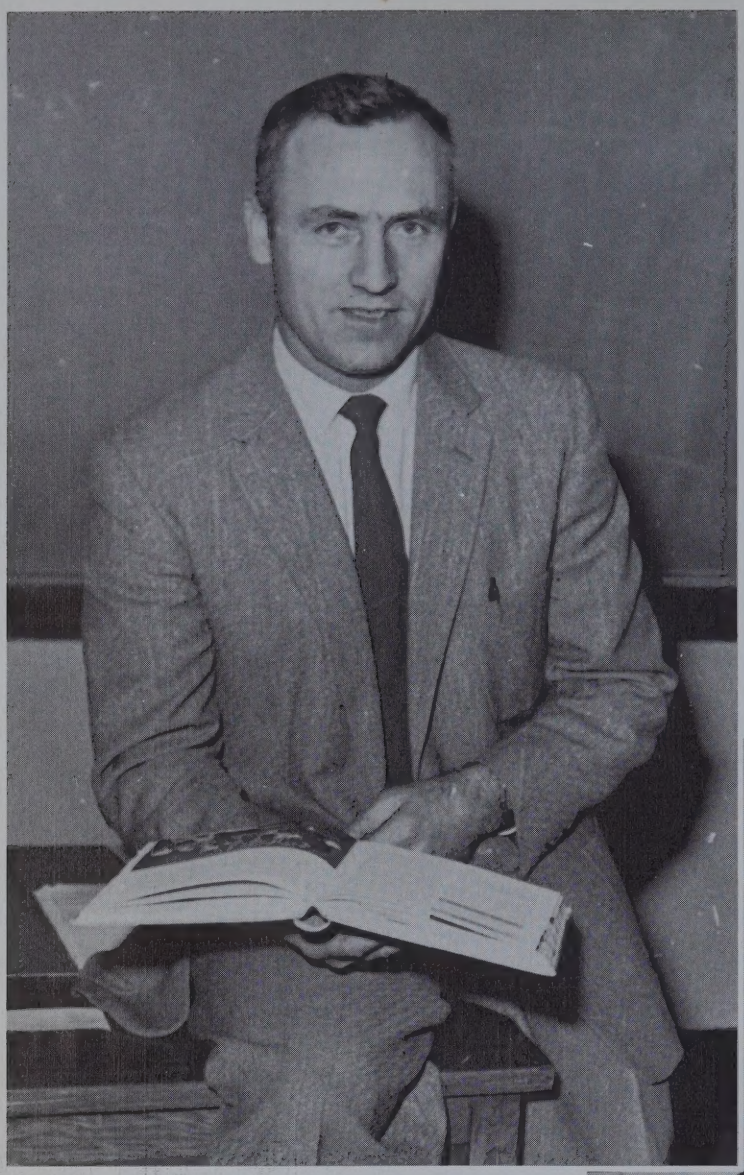
We dedicate with pride . . .



Mr. Fred Gallert

Mr. David Spayde

For your active interest, enthusiasm, and help in student activities; for your willingness to extend your help when it was needed; for your interest in the students, both scholastically and socially; for just being yourselves and true friends, we, the Senior Class of Kelloggsville High School, take great pleasure in dedicating the 1961 CENTURY to you, Mr. Fred Gallert and Mr. David Spayde.

ADMINISTRATION

Administration keeps District 8 running smoothly.

Mr. Russell Formsma

Mr. Formsma, the Kelloggsville superintendent, has the large responsibility of seeing that things run smoothly in all the schools in the district. He works with the school board in their planning, with the principals and their problems, and with the teachers.

The school board, made up of men in the school district, is the governing body of the school. These men, along with Mr. Formsma, include in their duties the forming of the school policies, hiring of teachers and other workers, and managing the financial details.

Members of the board were: Left to Right: Erving Nowlen, Trustee; J. Wesley Hardy, Treasurer; Elmer Thompson, Secretary; John Hage, Trustee; and Harold Weemhoff, Trustee. Absent: Neil Shippy, Trustee, and Walter Van Hoven, President.

Principals work with students, teachers, and parents.

Mr. Robert Fry

Mr. Fry, the high school principal, is a very versatile person. He not only has his regular office work, but also advises his Senior Student Council, works with the PTSA, helps the teachers, meets with and acts as host to visitors, counsels students with impartial suggestions and information, and guides students in choosing a college or occupation. Although his schedule is very full, he always seems to have time for unexpected conferences and situations.

Mr. Hunnes serves as principal in the junior high school and as the assistant principal in the high school. He has won the respect of all the teachers and students by his understanding and willingness to help whenever he can. The Junior Student Council and the newly formed International Relations Seminar are under Mr. Hunnes's supervision.

Mr. Young demonstrates to Bob Weirsom and Barbara Rison that one experiment teaches more than many written words.

In the offices . . .

Mrs. Ruth Cook knows most of the students in high school. At one time during the year, she gives passes, collects book rentals, or helps all students and teachers in numerous other ways. She keeps the absentee records, athletic eligibility records, and the accumulative files up to date, as well as all the other affairs of the principal's office.

Mrs. Joyce Magee, girls' physical education instructor, takes advantage of the files to become acquainted with the students. Located in the principal's office, the files contain accumulative records for each student with papers, pictures, test scores, and grades from the elementary school through high school.

Miss Barbara Young acts as the receptionist in the superintendent's office. She also answers the telephone, relays messages, and helps the other two office staffs.

Mrs. Helen Curths and Mrs. Edith Slagter, under the direction of Mr. Formsma, order materials and supplies, take care of all monetary matters, and help to keep other internal affairs of all the Kelloggsville schools running smoothly.

The custodians have a never-ending task. They are the first to arrive in the morning and the last to leave at night. Here Mr. Floyd Bailey, Mr. Vernon Marihugh, and Mr. Erwin Anderson prepare to set up chairs for a special program in the gymnasium.

During her study period, Lynda Shippy acts as a hall monitor appointed by the Student Council. Lynda and the other monitors, by requesting to see a permit giving the student permission to be in the hall, help to keep traffic to a minimum during class time.

Work goes on

During the past year, Geraldine Smith, Janice Flinton, Janice Springvloed, Janet Bosma, Sally Ide, and Marcia Koetje helped Mrs. Cook in the office during one of their study periods. They typed, ran errands, sorted mail, and delivered the absentee lists and bulletins.

Scholarship, leadership, service, and character are requirements for membership in the National Honor Society. Members are chosen by old members and include seniors through sophomores. Each new member is put on probation for one year before full acceptance in the society. Senior members are privileged to wear gold braid on their caps and gowns.

During the past year the group compiled a Kelloggsville Student Directory and sponsored an assembly on world affairs. Each week they sold paddle pops to earn money for various scholastic gifts to the school. A visit to a state college was an event of spring. Mrs. Plummer acted as their faculty advisor.

Money was raised by the Thursday doughnut sales. This money was used for supplies in the first aid room, for first aid assemblies, for library books pertaining to nursing, and for their films. In November, the girls enjoyed a potluck supper at the home of their advisor, Mrs. Dawson.

Each Monday, Wednesday, and Friday both new and old songs could be heard issuing from the music room. The practiced songs resulted in new learning and appreciation by the students as well as the presentation of and participation in many programs.

The annual Lee Vesper Service at Christmastime, a combined musical program with the band in February, and participation in the OK League Choir Festival filled the choir's schedule. The year was successfully concluded with the annual Kelloggsville Kapers, under the direction of Mr. Hazelton.

"Come on, yell louder!" was a familiar sound issuing from our 1960-61 varsity and reserve cheerleaders as they boosted the school and team spirit at the games and pep assemblies.

With the assistance of Mrs. Roberts, the girls worked hard practicing their cheers. Two of the year's activities were attending cheerleading clinics at Grand Rapids Junior College and East Grand Rapids High School where the girls received top ratings from the other schools represented.

Energy is a must for cheerleaders to carry on school spirit.

SENIORS

Seniors show leadership,

As school life at Kelloggsville High School has come to a close, we, the graduating seniors, look back on the many memories of things we have experienced in attaining our first big goal in life. Now, as we go out into the world, we will begin striving and advancing toward the goals we have set for ourselves; college, trade school, job, or marriage. We will utilize to the utmost the many varied lessons we have learned, scholastically, socially, and morally during the past four years.

This past year, under the guidance of Bill Halstead, president; Dale Downs, vice president; Lucille Van Hoven, secretary; Marcia Koetje, treasurer; and Ken Homrich, president of the Senior Student Council; we have had many important decisions to make. The Senior Class Play, Washington trip, class gift, honors day, baccalaureate, and graduation have made our senior year one to long remember.

Sportsmanship, and scholarship.

Excelling in scholastic ability were Stuart Johnson and Marilyn Ashley. They were chosen most likely to succeed.

Mrs. Blanche Chambers and Mr. Leonard Wilkins served as senior class advisors. They devoted much of their time and energy helping with senior projects such as the senior dances, baccalaureate, and graduation. They listened politely to class problems and offered a variety of suggestions and answers. They also acted as chaperons on the Washington trip.

Miss Clarice Jensen and Miss Mary Tervelt served as advisors for the Century. Their work started last spring when the '61 editors were elected and the staff chosen for the annual. They helped the seniors with the advertising and sales of the calendar, the underclassman pictures, the photography, copy and make-up of the book, and all the other smaller details.

Marcia Koetje, Olsie Colbert, and Mary Wisniewski are busily typing copy for that last deadline.

Operations for the Century staff swung into high gear shortly after the start of the school year. First on the agenda was the birthday calendar advertising, selling of birthday dates, and the actual calendar sales. Then came the huge tasks of assembling hundreds of student pictures, organization and sports pictures, information for all the pictures, figuring financial problems, getting orders for the yearbooks, and meeting deadlines. The staff has tried to capture and record all areas of high school life and to present them to you in this publication.

We, the Century staff, sincerely hope that the students and faculty will enjoy this edition and that in years to come it will help to recall many fond memories of the 1960-61 school year.

Enriched with knowledge and lasting memories gathered throughout our high school years, we, the Senior Class of 1961, walk the halls of Kelloggsville High School for the last times, looking forward to a future prepared for by the daily routine of classes and fun, and by having instilled within us a better knowledge of how to carry out our motto, A GRADUATE NOW; BUT A STUDENT ALWAYS.

Dear Patricia,

Since this is the last year I'll be writing in your annual, I'll have to be sure not to leave anything out. First, I'd like to say that these past four years of being a friend of yours have been the greatest. We've had some good times together, and I hope that there are more to come. If our plan works out, (and I hope it does) I'm sure that there will be.

You have been the best friend I could ever have, and I hope that our friendship will always continue. You're a very wonderful girl and I hope you always have the very best of luck and happiness in anything and everything you do.

Have lots of fun this summer, and be sure to call me every chance you get, okay?

Love Always,
Sandy

Patricia,

Well, we made it. It doesn't really seem like four years have gone by. I have really enjoyed being your friend and classmate and I hope we see each other in the years to come.

I'll always have many pleasant memories when I think back about our ups and downs.

Best of luck and happiness to a swell friend, and I know you will continue to be as successful as you always have been.

I hope you have lots of fun this summer, and since you just live down the street you could come down or even call once in a while.

Always your friend,

Sally
